D. APPLETON & CO.'S NEW BOOKS

Spanish Literature.

By James Fitz Maurice-Kelly, Member of the Spanish Academy. A new volume in The Literatures of the World Series, edited by Edmund Gosse. Uniform with "Ancient Greek Literature," "French Literature," "Modern English Literature," and "Italian Literature." 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

"This is an excellent and model handbook. It is treated with perspective and proportion; it is comprehensive, clear, concise, yet not dry-as-dust; the judgments are gidicial, impartial, and well on the hither side of exaggeration; the style is good, lucid, and interesting.

It is a work well done by one who has a thorough grip of his subject and has thought out its essentials before he set pen to paper."—London Academy.

Other volumes in the same series. Each, 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

ITALIAN LITERATURE. By RICHARD GARNETT, C.B., LL.D., Keeper of Printed Books in the British Museum. ANCIENT GREEK LITERATURE. By GILBERT MURRAY, M.A., Professor of Greek in the University of Glasgow.

FRENCH LITERATURE. By EDWARD DOWDEN, D.C.L., LL.D., Professor of English Literature at the University of Dublin.

MODERN ENGLISH LITERATURE. By the EDITOR.

The American Revolution, 1763-1783.

Being the chapters and passages Relating to America from the author's "History of England in the Eighteenth Century." By WILLIAM EDWARD HARTPOLE LECKY, M.P., author of "The History of European Morals," "Democracy and Liberty," "Rationalism in Europe," etc. Arranged and edited with Historical and Biographical Notes, by James Albert Woodburn, Professor of American History and Politics in Indiana University warms cloth the University. 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

Philip's Experiments; or, Physical Science at Home.

By John Trowbridge, author of "What is Electricity?" Illustrated. 12mo, cloth, $1.00.

The writer's object in this book is to show that a little of the time that a youth has outside of the school-room may, if devoted to simple investigations under proper guidance, produce important and far-reaching results of permanent educational value. Interest in Nature and science may be aroused in walks with an interesting companion. "Philip's Experiments" will show how much a parent can accomplish in the formation of a son's tastes with a little wisely directed effort. with a little wisely directed effort.

A Herald of the West.

A Romance of 1812. By J. A. Altsheler, author of "A Soldier of Manhattan" and "The Sun of Saratoga." 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

Tamo, cloth, $1.50.

The author's brilliant success in this country and in England as a writer of American historical romances will direct especial attention to his new book, which embodies his most ambitious work. He opens with some most interesting pictures of social life and political conditions in Washington just before the War of 1812, and later the reader gains an insight into the contemporary life of Philadelphia, New York, and Boston. The passages dealing with the war itself include singularly vivid and dramatic accounts of the capture of Washington by the British, and the battle of New Orleans, both noteworthy contributions to American literature. contributions to American literature.

The Widower.

By W. E. Norris, author of "Marietta's Marriage," "The Dancer in Yellow," "A Victim of Good Luck," etc. 12mo, paper, 50 cents; cloth, $1.00. No. 250, Appletons' Town and Country Library.

David Harum.

A Story of American Life. By Edward N. Westcott. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

"We give Edward Noyes Westcott his true place in American letters—placing him as a humorist next to Mark Twain, as a master of dialect above Lowell, as a descriptive writer equal to Bret Harte, and, on the whole, as a novelist on a par with the best of those who live and have their being in the heart of hearts of American readers. If the author is dead—lamentable fact—his book will live."—Philadelphia Item.

"Thoroughly a pure, original, and fresh American type. 'David Harum' is a character whose qualities of mind and heart, eccentricities and dry humor will win for his creator notable distinction. . . . Buoyancy, life, and cheerfulness are dominant notes. In its vividness and force, the story is a strong fresh picture of American life, original and true, which is worth the same distinction which is accorded the genre pictures of peculiar types and places sketched by Mr. George W. Cable, Mr. Joel Chandler Harris, Mr. Thomas Nelson Page, Miss Wilkins, Miss Jewett, Mr. Garland, Miss French, Miss Murfree, Mr. Gilbert Parker, Mr. Owen Wister, and Bret Harte. . . A pretty love-story also adds to the attractiveness of the book that will be appreciated at once by everyone who enjoys real humor, strong character, true pictures of life and work that is 'racy of the soil.'"—Boston Herald. -Boston Herald.

DODD, MEAD & CO.'S NEW BOOKS.

NEW WORKS OF FICTION.

The Uncalled.

A Novel. By PAUL LAURENCE DUNBAR. 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

Mr. Dunbar, whose success as a poet has been altogether exceptional, and who has also since shown himself to be a master of the art of short-story writing, has here given us his first long novel. It is a realistic picture of the sordid life of a small town in the State of Ohio. It is a character-study of the first order, showing great insight into human life and experience.

The Second Thoughts of an Idle Fellow.

By JEROME K. JEROME. 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

"Idle Thoughts of an Idle Fellow," when published several years ago, gave the author an immediate and widespread popularity. The following titles of some of the chapters of his new book will sufficiently indicate its contents: On the Motherliness of Man—On the Exceptional Merit Attaching to the Things One Meant To Do—On the Care and Management of Women—On the Nobility of Ourselves, etc., etc.

The Title-Mongers.

By WILLIAM FARQUHAR PAYSON, author of "The Copy-Maker," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

A society novel—of Paris and Newport. A young French nobleman, because of his debts, has become an object of serious consideration on the part of his creditors, when a brilliant and novel idea occurs to one of them. He suggests that they form a "syndicate," send the young man to America, and keep him there at one of the fashionable summer resorts, on condition that he marry the first rich woman he meets. How he disappoints the anxious syndicate, though he in the end honorably satisfies their demands, makes a most ingenious and entertaining story.

The Fatal Gift.

By F. Frankfort Moore, author of "Phyllis of Philistia," "Dareen," etc., etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

Glimpses are caught here and there throughout this story of the elder Sheridan, of Walpole, of Whitefield, whose religious fervor was making itself felt at that time, and of other prominent characters of the period. The interest of the reader is sustained without conscious effort from the beginning to the end of this vividly written romance of two eighteenth-century girls.

The Minister of State.

A Novel. By J. A. STEUART, author of "In the Day of Battle," etc. 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

W. E. Henley writes of "The Minister of State":
"Mr. Steuart writes the English tongue with real distinction. He has temperament, brains, style, an ideal, a strong sense of his duty to the public and to art. His characters, too, are observed and presented with a really admirable felicity. And their environment is well done. You read him, and read him eagerly, right to his last page."

The Comte de la Muette.

By BERNARD CAPES. 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

This romance presents in a series of vivid impressions the extraordinary events of the French Revolution, with the abnormal characters developed by the stress of that period. The narrative is spirited, audacious, and full of adroit descriptive touches.

ARCHITECTURE AND PROSE STYLE:

Turrets, Towers, and Temples.

Descriptions, by the masters of literature, of the great masterpieces of architecture throughout the world. With 75 illustrations. Edited by ESTHER SINGLETON. 8vo, cloth, $2.00.

This handsome volume is a realization of what is believed to be a new idea. The editor has collected from the great writers of all languages notable descriptions of the famous buildings of the world. For example, Ruskin describes St. Mark, in Venice; Victor Hugo, Notre Dame in Paris, etc., etc. The illustrations are all reproductions of photographs.

FOR YOUNGER READERS:

Treasure Divers.

A Boy's Adventures in the Depths of the Sea. By Charles F. Holder. Fully illustrated. 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

By means of a wonderful boat and its various novel appliances, the ocean is explored and its treasures recovered. Incidentally, a boy who accompanies some scientific friends in the party is told of all the deep-sea monsters, and in this way the story, while full of adventure, conveys a great amount of substantial information. Mr. Holder's capabilities for treating scientific subjects in an entertaining manner are well known among younger readers.

A Little Girl in Old Boston.

By AMANDA DOUGLAS. Uniform with "A Little Girl in Old New York." 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

Miss Douglas's "A Little Girl in Old New York" has delighted so many readers that she has been importuned to write a similar book upon old Boston. She has succeeded in writing a story which is quite as interesting as any juvenile book she has yet written.

Witch Winnie in Spain.

By ELIZABETH W. CHAMPNEY. With many illustrations. Large 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

Witch Winnie, whose journeys and experiences in her artistic career abroad have been followed by a host of young readers, has this year recounted her adventures in Spain. There is abundant interest, artistic and picturesque, in that country, and there need be no doubt of the popularity of the new volume in this well-known series.

Twiddledetwit.

A Child's Story. By MARTHA FINLEY. Illustrated. 16mo, cloth, $1.00.

A fanciful story for very little people. We assume that all children love good fairy tales—or should love them—and the host of young readers who delight in the "Elsie" books do not need to be assured that this story is the kind they like.

NOTES IN SEASON.

D. APPLETON & Co. have just ready "Spanish Literature," by James Fitz Maurice-Kelly, a new volume in their excellent Literatures of the World Series, edited by Edmund Gosse; "Philip's Experiment, or, physical science at home," by John Trowbridge; and three works of great merit: "David Harum," a story of American life, by the late Edward N. Westcott; "A Herald of the West," a romance of 1812, by J. A. Altsheler; and "The Widower," by Edward Morris.

DOUBLEDAY & MCCLURE Co. have just ready Rudyard Kipling's new volume of stories, "The Day's Work." This includes twelve of Mr. Kipling's most representative tales, that have appeared in magazines within the past few years, ranging from sea stories, such as "The Ship that Found Herself," to the polotale of "The Maltese Cat," and the imaginative story of "The Brushwood Boy." Three editions of the book were exhausted by advance orders, the fourth being now in press.

FREDERICK A. STOKES Co. have just issued "The Town Traveller," a new volume by George Gissing, in which this able but rather too sombre writer has struck a more cheery note, while retaining all his old conscientiousness and truth; and "Grace O'Malley," by Robert Machray, which gives a stirring picture of the subjugation of Ireland by Queen Elizabeth, introducing true characters. Grace O'Malley was the leader of an Irish clan, who expected Spain would help them throw off the English yoke.

THE MACMILLAN Co. have now ready complete sets of the "Modern Reader's Bible," by Richard G. Moulton, of which seventeen volumes are devoted to the Old Testament and four to the New Testament. Mabel Osgood Wright, whose "Citizen Bird" was so pronounced a success, has now written "Fourfooted Americans and Their Kin," and her description of about seventy-five or more American animals and their kin, which include the wing headed bat and the footless whale, are illustrated by Ernest Seton Thompson, a name that stands for the best of this kind of work.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT Co. have ready "The True Benjamin Franklin," by Sydney George Fisher; the revised and corrected edition of John Bigelow's "Life of Benjamin Franklin;" Charles M. Skinner's "Myths and Legends Beyond Our Borders;" and "Charles Lamb and the Lloyds," comprising newly discovered letters of Charles Lamb, S. T. Coleridge, the Lloyds, etc. Attention is specially called to Charles Morris' recent books, "The War with Spain," "Our Nation's Navy," and the seventh and eighth volumes of "Historical Tales," which deal with "Russia" and "Japan and China."

Houghton, Mifflin & Co. will publish to-day the Cambridge edition of Tennyson's poetical works; "The Boys of Old Monmouth," a story of Washington's campaign in New Jersey in 1778, by Everett T. Tomlinson; "In the Brave Days of Old," a story of adventure in the time of King James I., by Ruth Hall; "A History of the Presidency," by Dr. Edward Stanwood; and "John Adams, the statesman of the American Revolution," and other essays and addresses, historical and literary, by Mellen Chamberlain, who is well known as former librarian of the Boston Public Library, and a careful student of American history. A new edition with an additional chapter of the useful book entitled "The Liquor Problem in its Legislative Aspect," by F. H. Wines and John Koren, is also ready.

Dodd, Mead & Co. have prepared several works of fiction, and have just ready "Uncalled," by Paul Laurence Dunbar, a realistic picture of the sordid life of a small town in Ohio; "The Title-Monger," by William Farquhar Payson, a society novel of Paris and Newport; "The Fatal Gift," by F. Frankfort Moore, which introduces Sheridan, Walpole, Whitefield, and other characters of the last century in England; "The Minister of State," by J. A. Steuart; and "The Second Thoughts of an Idle Fellow," by Jerome K. Jerome. "The Adventures of Comte de la Muette During the Reign of Terror," by Bernard Capes, tells accurate history under the guise of fiction; Esther Singleton has edited, translated, and arranged descriptions of architecture written by the great masters of literature, which are issued under the title "Turrets, Towers, and Temples;" and two or three juveniles for the holidays are also ready for inspection.

Alexander, Archibald. Theories of the will | Bible. New Testament. The teachings of in the history of philosophy. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1898. c. 7+357 p. D. cl.,

concise account of the development of the theory of the will, from the earliest days of Greek thought down to about the middle of the present century. The writer believes it is not sufficiently comprehensive to be called a history, for it includes only the theories of the more important philosophers, and does not by any means exhaust the literature of the subject. In and means exhaust the interactive of the subject. In addition to contributing something to the history of philosophy, it has been the author's purpose to introduce in this way a constructive explanation of voluntary action. The account closes with the theory of Lotze.

Alger, Horatio, jr. The young bank messenger. Phil., H: T. Coates & Co., 1898. c. 4+325 p. il. D. (Good fortune lib., no. 2.) cl., $1.25.

Bates, Arlo. The Puritans. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1898. c. 5+424 p. O.

Two young men, members of a ritualistic Episco-palian order which prescribes celibacy in its members, are temporarily obliged to leave the clergy house. They are thrown into fashionable Boston society, and have their religious views severely tested, in each case a woman being the temptress. Aside from the story effort is made to show how intellectual Boston amuses itself with spiritualism, mind-cure, Orientalism, etc.

The story of an Englishman who seeking a fortune in Australia, is told by a dying mate, whom he has nursed through a long sickness, of a gold mine of limitless wealth. While the young hero in his turn is struggling with fever his secret is stolen from him, and when he finally arrives at the gold field it has already been claimed by and awarded to his enemy. He dedicates his life henceforth to killing this man; follows him to England, and while hypnotized by "Dr. Nikola," one of the author's previous heroes, imagines he has killed him; then takes a steamer for South Africa, is wrecked, falls in love, regrets his evil deed, again meets Nikola, etc., etc.; the story ending most satisfactorily.

It is to tell, in story fashion, but as correctly as the sifted reports and records of both sides render possible, the real tale of Custer's last rally and heroic death that this book has been written. Intended primarily for young Americans—for those of our boys and girls who delight in adventure and wish their stories spiced with action—the book still endeavors to appeal to all 'mericans and to so deal with facts as to explain in some fashion the causes and "misfits" of that rash enterprise which closed in the tragedy of Custer and his brave troopers under the bluffs of the Little Big Horn."—Preface.

love. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1898. c. 3+309 p. D. cl., $1.25. [2731 Like "Miss Archer Archer" and other of the writer's novels, the plot is very simple; it relates entirely to the development of two love affairs, whose many incidents are told through a wealth of witty conversation. The two chief women characters are a Colorado girl studying music in Boston, who is steeped in "slang" and is very amusing, and a beautiful society girl with a unique voice, who desires to make singing her profession. The wholestory takes place in or near Boston.

The story begins in Dublin. Introduces Fenians, who get into trouble with church and state and go to America. The hero, after getting into touch with his New York countrymen, goes back to keep an appointment with his promised wife. The story leaves him working with his old-time zeal, but with more discretion, to bring together all Irishmen, and, uniting them, to make Ireland a nation, where every one will be free to profess any religion he pleases.

The trip described was undertaken at the request of Mr. Bennett, of the Herald, with the aim of discovering the real cause of the Armenian massacres, and of presenting both sides of the Armenian question with strict impartiality. The route travelled included the places where the worst massacres had occurred—these localities were investigated with the full sanction of the Sultan. Mr. Hepworth's conclusions are: that the root of the difficulties was political rather than religious; that the Turks, hating the Armenians for their superior intelligence, thrift, and business enterprise, had so oppressed them that an Armenian revolutionary party had been created; the acts of the revolutionists had been the Turk's excuse in his attempts at exterminating the Armenian people. Mr. Hepworth does not believe that the end of the trouble is reached. The trip described was undertaken at the request of cl., 75 c. [2772]

From history and political and social conditions the author draws his premises: that the tropics must be developed; that such development can only take place under the influence of the white man. The issue is larger than any mere question of commercial policy or national selfishness. The tropics must be governed as a trust for civilization. The methods must be scientifically studied and people put in trust who have passed examinations in great universities. Upon English-speaking peoples seems to have been laid this great responsibility, for they now stand in the world for the ideas and principles needed for the work.

The original work, a part of which is here given in English, consists of three volumes. These together form a systematic whole. The first volume contains an introduction to "Theological encyclopedia," included in pages 1-55 of this translation. It treats of the name, idea, and conception of encyclopedia, and then, more specifically, of the idea, divisions, and (most copiously) the history of theological encyclopedia. The second volume is given entire in this volume. It is the general part, and discusses all those questions which concern the place of theology among the sciences and the nature of theology as a science with a "principium" of its own. Dr. Kuyper uses the word encyclopedia as the name of an independent science, which has for its object of investigation all other science.

Taylor, Hannis. The origin and growth of the English constitution: an historical treatise in which is drawn out, by the light of the most recent researches, the gradual development of the English constitutional system, and the growth out of that system of the federal republic of the United States. In 2 pts. Pt. 2, The after-growth of the constitution. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., [1898.] c. 44+645 p. O. cl., $4.50.

Contents: Bk. 4, The York and Tudor monarchy; Bk. 5, The Stuarts and the Puritan revolution of 1640; Bk. 6, The Restoration and the Revolution of 1688; Bk. 7, Growth of the modern ministerial system. This volume concludes the work. Beginning in the first volume with the dim outlines of the primitive Teutonic constitution contained in the Germania of Tacitus, Mr. Taylor traces the evolution of the English constitution down to the legislation of the last few years.

Mr. Whitmarsh is the son of an English clergyman, but there was implanted in his nature the spirit of adventure too strong to be resisted. The sea called him, and he became a 'fore-mast hand. But he tired of the life at last, and dreamed of fortunes to be won in Australia; so he shipped on a vessel bound for the South Seas, and left his shipmates at Port Adelaide. Then he became in rapid succession a "sun-downer," or tramp, a silver-miner, a sheep-herder, a laborer, a beachcomber, a barber, a clerk, and a pearl-diver. His book is an absolutely frank account of all of these varied experiences. varied experiences.

THE BRENTANO COMPROMISE.

THE story of the Brentano compromise throws curious light on the present condition of the American book trade.

The Brentano brothers by singular enterprise and exceptional vigor built up a distributing business, chiefly as retailers, with headquarters in New York and associated bookstores in Chicago, Washington, and Paris, notable among the few large distributing agencies left in the book trade proper. They also did a limited publishing business. In 1892 a fire caused them considerable loss and compelled their removal-indeed they have suffered from the three removes which are said to be worse than a fire, added to the business conditions which in 1893 and more or less in succeeding years have been sufficiently discouraging in themselves. Nevertheless, the house seemed and considered themselves to be doing a prosperous business, and while it had become known in some quarters that the business required retrenchment of expenses and extension of accounts, it was scarcely supposed that anything like a disastrous failure was probable.

On July 20 the firm addressed a circular letter to the leading publishers who constituted their chief trade creditors, stating that as against borrowed money amounting to $85,250 and merchandise accounts of $90,000-a total indebtedness of $175,250—their nominal assets, including stock at cost value, of $253,000 could not be realized upon to meet maturing obligations and offering the alternative of suspension and liquidation or an extension of time. The last alternative was, however, coupled with the extraordinary provision that the creditors should individually agree not only to an extension of debts but to further credit for merchandise to be purchased, of from $10,000 each down, the indebtedness and the new credit to be covered within the subsequent five years. So much did the trade emphasize the importance of this house as a distributing agency or outlet for goods, that many conservative publishing houses were prepared to accede even to the last-named feature; but two other houses, hesitating to make further extension of credit because the previous indebtedness could not be met, declined to become parties to the proposed arrangement, and it therefore fell through. The objecting firm probably saw that credit of this sort given to a house which avowedly could not pay its debts would be a blow in the face to every customer who had paid his debts, unless at least as liberal an extension of credit was offered to every one in good standing who applied for it. Th's would practically take the control of credits out of the publishers' hands.

This plan of compromise failing, a second proposal was sent out on September 19, with the approval, and it is said at the suggestion of certain publishers reciting the above facts and stating that in view of the difficulties preventing the previous arrangement and of the unfortunate result of a direct and immediate liquidation, a receiver had been appointed in a friendly suit, as was already known to the trade, and that thereafter "a good friend of our firm" had offered to furnish money for a settlement at forty cents on the dollar, ten cents in cash and the balance in semi-annual instalments. This combination in turn proving unsatisfactory, the same gentleman agreed to advance thirty cents for a cash settlement, an offer which had already been accepted by creditors whose claims aggregated about $135,000 out of a total indebtedness of $175,000. This letter was accompanied by a careful argument in a letter from the secretary of the Stationers' Board of Trade, who has commended himself to the trade as an enterprising and conservative manager of accounts entrusted to him, practically recommending that this settlement be made.

No disclosure was made in the published statements to creditors of the annual amount of business done by the house in its several stores, nor of the amount of rent that was involved, said to be very large in New York, nor was any statement made as to the relations of the retail and publishing divisions of the business. In a mixed publishing and retail business, it is sometimes the case that the publishing expenses are sapping the retail business, or that the retail expenses are undermining the publishing portion. For instance, the publishing end of a concern does not require high expenditure in rent, while any expenditure in rent is justifiable on the retail side that leads to an adequate increase of trade. In cities like New York the highest rent may be the cheapest, but to justify such rental an enormous retail business is necessary. A rent of $10,000 would be a tax of ten cents on each dollar book sold if $100,000 of them were sold, and a rent of $20,000 twenty cents on that amount or ten cents on $200,000 in books. Probably no retail business can stand a tax like this, whereas a rental of $25,000 or more might be easily justified if it meant half a million or a million dollars of retail trade. In a case like this creditors who are publishers should be assured that in extending aid by such a compromise to a retailing-publishing business they are not paying through retail channels for the losses of a rival publishing business.

The real difficulty in the way of a compromise with a supposedly successful house on such a basis as thirty cents on the dollar is the "forgotten man"-the man who has been doing his business and paying his debts on the basis of 100 cents on the dollar. A bankruptcy sale on forced liquidation is a bad blow at him, but a still worse blow is the feeling that other people, continuing in business, have practically purchased their goods at thirty cents where he has been paying 100 cents. It is not too much to say that the readiness to make compromises of this sort on the part of leaders in the publishing trade has been one of the causes leading to the curtai'ment of the distributing trade. It takes the heart out of any man competing in business to have to meet the effect of such compromises with others, and it offers an easy temptation to men not aggressively honest to be loose in their business methods in expectation that ultimately they also may get the benefit of a like compromise.

DISTRIBUTION OF BOOKS IN NEW ENG-LAND IN THE 17TH CENTURY.

An old "cash-book" of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in New England, recently discovered in the Hall of Records of one of our State capitols, contains interesting references to the early distribution of books in New England. The story of the recovery of the book has been described by Dr. Charles A. Briggs in an article entitled "Romance of a Cash-Book," that appeared in the August issue of the New England Magazine. From this article we extract the following:

"In 1656 there is the first reference to the printing of that familiar series of books relating to the propagation of the Gospel among the Indians in New England. An expenditure was made of £12 14s. for paper and printing of three thousand books entitled 'A Late and Further Manifestation of the Progress of the Gospel;' and 'blue and marble paper, sewing and stitching 3000 books above mentioned, £7 125. This volume was published in 1655 under the title 'A Late and Further Manifestation of the Progress of the Gospel amongst the Indians in New England.' It was preceded by a number of similar works.

"The first account of missions among the Indians of New England was published in 1643, 'New England's First Fruits.' In 1646 John Eliot began preaching to the Indians in their own language. The results were reported to London in a series of tracts:

"(1) 'The Day Breaking if not the Sun Rising of the Gospel with the Indians in New England,' 1647, Lon-

"(2) 'The Clear Sunshine of the Gospel Breaking Forth Upon the Indians of New England,' London, 1648.

(13) 'The Glorious Progress of the Gospel amongst the Indians in New England,' London, 1649.

All these were printed before the corpora ion was organized. Afterward were published:

"(4) 'The Light Appearing More and More toward the Perfect Day,' London, 1651. "(5) 'Strength out of Weakness,' 1652. "(6) 'Tears of Repentance,' 1653.

"So far as the cash-book is concerned there is no reference to payments for the publication of these volumes. Therefore the common opinion that they were published at the expense of the corporation, which was expressed in 'American Presbyterianism' (p. xxxvii.,) must be given up. The first to be published at their expense was the seventh. They also published the eighth and ninth of these volumes. On May 27, 1659, is the entry, 'Paper and printing 3000 books "A Further Account of the Progress of the Gospel Amongst the Indians of New England," and for fine blue paper and stitching the said books, £24.' June 27 and September 5, 1660, there are similar entries for printing 1500 copies of a book of 'The Further Progress of the Gospel.' After the Restoration there is an entry, July 20, 1664, for 'binding Indian Bibles, £10.' September 19, 1660, is an entry of £5 18s. for passage of Marmaduke Johnson, and for other things; April 15, 1663, of '£29 paid Marmaduke Johnson, printer.' He was brought over from New England to print the Bible. On February 16, 1664 (5), 'salary of Marmaduke Johnson for printing Indian Bible, £35'; 'paid Thomas Goring's for a font of letters, £31 175. 08d.' These are items of great interest for those who would know the value of such things in those

"There is a record, September 11, 1660, of 630 paid on the salary of Mr. Thomas Mayhew, Jr.; and February 16, 1664 (5), of a gift of £50 'to John Eliot as a gratuity given him for his extraordinary pains amongst the In-dians in New England.

"This will suffice for the cash-book. We may, however, mention the subsequent history of this first missionary society.

"The members of the company [The Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in New England,] established by the royal charter at the Restoration, February 7, 1661 (2), were forty-five, including churchmen and dissenters. Robert Boyle was made the first Governor. He took a great interest in the society, giving them £300 and afterward willing them £100, recommending his executors that after all debts and legacies were paid to use the greater por-tion of the balance of his estate 'for the advancement of the Christian religion amongst the infidels.' Eliot continued his work in New England and published Indian grammars, primers, a 'Harmony of the Gospels,' and a catechism. He also wrote the last tract of the New England Indian series, 1671-' A Brief Narrative of the Progress of the Gospel Amongst the Indians in New England, in the year 1670. Eliot resigned the charge at Roxbury in 1688 and died in 1690. The corporation also supported Thomas Mayhew in his work among the Indians at Martha's Vineyard and Nantucket, and Mr. Bourne, John Cotton. a son of the famous John Cotton, and Mr. Hawley in their work at Mashpee, fif y miles from Boston. A letter from New England in 1689 reports 6 Indian churches, 18 assemblies of catechumens, and 24 preachers.
"The work of the corporation was carried on in New England until the war of the American Revolution. Then the funds were allowed to accumulate until 1786, when work was begun in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. The funds were enlarged by a legacy of Daniel Williams, an eminent Presbyterian divine of London, who died January 26, 1715 (6). The three funds, the Charter Fund, the Boyle Fund, and the Williams Fund, gave them ample revenue. The corporation continues its work among the Indians in Canada at the present time. It is a well-endowed corporation; it makes no appeal for charitable contributions. It labors in a quiet, unostentatious, but effectual, way, having four missionary stations near the Grand River on the reserve of the Six Nations, also on the Rice and Chemung Lakes and on Kuper Island in British Columbia."*

DECLINE IN THE SALE OF ENGLISH RELIGIOUS BOOKS.

THE ups and downs of books and their reputations and sales are frequently remarked upon by the industrious literary paragrapher, but Mr. Shaylor, the London bookseller, has recently been giving in the Publishers' Circular some novel statistics about the falling off in the production of religious books:

"The decline began, Mr. Shaylor reckons, a quarter of a century ago. At, or perhaps a little before, that time the Rev. J. R. Macduff rivalled the foremost novelists in popularity. The sales of his books were to be reckoned in hundreds of thousands-he was, in fact, the Dickens of religion. For years Dean Goulburn's 'Thoughts on Personal Religion' had an annual sale of 10,000 copies, and Bishop Oxenden's 'The Pathway of Safety' was equally popular. Of the Rev. Newman Hall's 'Come to Jesus' over a million copies have been sold. Think what that would mean to the pushful self-advertiser. Among other writers whose names were familiar as household words a generation ago were the Rev. Horatius Bonar, the Rev. John Angell James, Miss Havergal, Miss Marsh, the Rev. James Hamilton, the Rev. W. Jay, and the Rev. C. H. Spurgeon. How many of them are known even by name to the present generation? Luckily for themselves they appeared at the right moment, for, as Mr. Shaylor remarks, the first half of the Victorian era was the golden age for religious books.

"Not only was there a constant demand for such libraries as The Christian Family Library, The Biblical Cabinet, The Lady's Closet Library, The Christian's Fireside Libraries, The Library of Christian Biography, Sacred Classics, The London Theological Library, Pickering's Christian Classics, Protestant's Sound Literature, Library of Puritan Divines, The Spiritual Library, and The Practical Christian's Library. Most of these, Mr. Shaylor tells us, have now 'a very flickering existence, while for others there is no market whatever.' The question arises, Would it pay to reissue them in attractive form, or is the taste which relished them gone? For such books as Taylor's 'Holy Living and Dying' and Law's 'Serious Call' there will always be a demand, because genius as well as devoutness went to their production. Similarly, the best of Newman's writings will live when the Tractarian movement is totally forgotten save, perhaps, by theological students; but for the Macduffs and the Bonars and the Hamiltons we fear there is not much chance. Nor is it to be supposed that fresh life can be given to works like Gladstone's 'Essays and Reviews' and 'Vatican Decrees,' which were written to serve a temporary purpose, and, having served it, have passed from men's minds. Mr. Shaylor notes that in the many volumes of the Victorian literature which have lately appeared no mention is made of number-less religious or devotional books which were once thought indispensable in tens of thousands of households. The circumstance is certainly significant and illustrates with startling clearness the attitude of the public toward religious or devotional literature in general."

POSTAL MATTERS.

THE POSTMASTER-GENERAL DEFINES THIRD CLASS MATTER.

Postmaster-General Charles Emory Smith has modified previous rulings of the Department in definition of third-class mail matter. All impressions obtained on paper or cardboard by means of printing, engraving, lithography, or any other mechanical process easy to recognize, except the typewriter letter or manifold copy, are held to be printed matter, if not in the nature of an actual and personal correspondence.

Matter prepared by the typewriter must be regarded as personal correspondence, and unmailable at the third-class rate of postage; but the facsimile copies of manuscript or typewriting obtained by a mechanical process are classed as printing, and may be regarded as third-class matter, provided they are presented for mailing at the post-office windows and in minimum numbers of twenty perfectly identical copies. If mailed elsewhere, or in less number, postage at first-class rate must be required.

OBITUARY NOTES.

THEODOR FONTANE, a German writer and poet, died in Berlin September 21. He was born at Neu-Ruppin, in the province of Brandenburg, Prussia, December 30, 1819. He was educated at the Berlin School of Arts and Crafts, and in 1835 became an apothecary, serving his apprenticeship years in Leipzig and Dresden. In 1844 he went to England, and since his return to Berlin in 1849 devoted himself exclusively to literature. He visited England again in 1852 and for the last time in 1855, remaining until 1859 to make a study of English art, literature, and the drama. He acted as German war correspondent for the Neue Preussische Zeitung in 1860 and during the Franco-Prussian War. Besides two volumes of poems and several novels, Fontane wrote two books inspired by his residence in England, entitled "Aus England," studies on Erglish art, "Ein Sommer in London," and "Jenseits des Tweed." Among his military works were "The Schleswig War," "The War Against Austria," "Prisoners of War," and "The War Against France."

RICHARD MALCOLM JOHNSTON, the novelist and lecturer, died in Baltimore, Md., September 22, after an illness of several months. Col. Johnston was born in Hancock County, Ga., March 8, 1822. He was of Scotch descent.

^{*}See "Sketch of the Origin and Recent History of the New England Company." By the Senior Member of the Company. London, 1884.

His father, Malcolm Johnston, was a Virginian by birth, who settled in Georgia and became a successful planter. On his mother's side Col. Johnston's ancestors were also Virginians. He was graduated from Mercer University in 1841. He taught school for a year and then studied law, was admitted to the bar, and began to practice at Sparta, Ga., in 1843. In 1857 he became professor of belles lettres in the State University of Georgia, which place he held until the outbreak of the Civil War. During the war he was an aide to Governor Brown, and was active in organizing the militia of the State of Georgia. He also established a classical school at Rockly, Ga., which enjoyed an enviable reputation in the South. In 1887 he removed this school to Chestnut Hill, two miles north of Baltimore, where it is now known as the Pen Lucy Institute. He conducted the school until a few years ago, since which time he has devoted himself to lecturing and to writing. Col. Johnston owed his reputation as a writer chiefly to his delightful short stories of the "Cracker" life of middle Georgia. His published works include "Georgia Sketches," "Dukesborough Tales," published under the pseudonym of "Philemon Perch;" "Ol 1 Mark Langston," "Two Gray Tourists," "Mr. Absalom Billings and Other Georgia Folk," and with the collaboration of William Hand Browne he wrote "A Historical Sketch of English Literature" and a "Life of Alexander H. Stephens.'

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

The Public School Journal, with the new volume beginning this month, has become School and Home Education, and will appear hereafter on the first of each month, excepting July and August. The publishers are the Public School Publishing Co., Bloomington, Ill.

The Arena has suspended publication. It is reported that the owners have had several offers for the assets, but that they have decided not to sell. This may mean that they hope to resume publication when the 1900 campaign begins. The magazine was founded in 1889 by Benjamin O. Flower, and was especially devoted to the discussion of social, economic, religious, educational, and other problems. In the campaign of 1896 it became enthusiastic for Bryan and free silver, and after the election the company publishing it became insolvent. When the magazine was sold Dr. John Clark Ridpath became the editor.

THERE will shortly be published in Cleveland, O, a new monthly magazine for women. entitled Woman's Sphere, which will be devoted to the practical issue of home and home-making. Its motive is to expand its energies in the in-terest of turning womanly labor into development of fruit lands and a propaganda for fruitgrowing as a means of livelihood, also the securing of homes for individuals and groups. Related subjects dealing with home affairs will be treated, but fruit and fruit-growing will be the banner of the new magazine. modelled on French lines by English and American women on American soil, and it will exhibit in Paris in 1900. It owns its own land -not for sale, but for occupation-and the labors of its contributors will be paid for in shares of fruit.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

MATTHEW BENDER, Albany, N. Y., will publish at once "Collier on Bankruptcy," an exhaustive treatise on the new national bankruptcy law, containing forms, etc.

- T. Y. CROWELL & Co. will publish shortly a volume entitled "Quiet Talks with Earnest People in My Study," by Rev. Dr. Charles E. Jefferson, pastor of the Broadway Tabernacle Church of New York.
- T. S. DENISON informs the trade that his novel, "The Man Behind," is issued only under his own imprint, and that The Stein Co., of Chicago, have no right whatever to publish the book, as some book-trade papers have said they were doing.
- E. P. DUTTON & Co. have nearly ready "Among the Forest People," a companion to the popular book of last season, "Among the Meadow People." The Falstaff pocket edition of Shakespeare, which this house is issuing, will be completed in about four weeks.

THE first performance in this country of "The Christian" was given at the New Empire Theatre in Albany, N. Y., on the evening of September 23, before an audience that filled every part of the house. Hall Caine occupied one of the boxes, and was called upon again and again to bow his thanks.

HERBERT S. STONE & Co. have now ready Henry James' great English success, entitled "In the Cage," the story of a London telegraph operator, who, strange to say, interests her readers throughout the tale without leaving them any name by which to remember her; and an excellent peaceable solution of the social problem by Laurence Gronlund, entitled "The New Economy."

A DINNER was given on the evening of September 20 at the roof garden restaurant in the Jersey Central Building, 143 Liberty Street, New York, to the employees of her publishing house by Mrs. Norman L. Munro, in commemoration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of The New York Family Story Paper. J. E. Abarbanell, the editor of the paper, was master of ceremonies. Covers were laid for thirty guests.

D. APPLETON & Co. have now ready "The House of Hidden Treasure," by Maxwell Gray, who considers this a finer work than her everpopular "Silence of Dean Maitland;" "The Gospel Writ in Steel," a story of the American Civil War, by Arthur Paterson; and "The Earth and Sky," a primer of astronomy for young readers, by Edward S. Holden, the latest addition to the wholly delightful Home-Reading Books.

M. F. MANSFIELD & Co. have just issued "Trewinnott of Guy's," by Mrs. Coulson Kernahan, who tells an interesting story of medical student life in London and the hardships impecunious young students contend with before being recognized in their profession; "The Story of Lois," by Katherine S. Macquoid; and "The Love of a Former Life," by Charles J. H. Halcombe, a story of reincarnation told with delightful humor.

P. T. DODGE, a patent attorney of New York City and of Washington, has presented to Cornell University, through Dr. Thurston, of Sibley College, the original Paige typesetting machine, the only one of its kind ever built. It was constructed at a cost of nearly $2,000,000. It consists of over nineteen thousand parts, and is in every detail beautifully perfect in its working. It is considered the most expensive piece of machinery in the world.

THE statement has often been made that we Americans are, to a large extent, absorbed by our own political affairs to the exclusion of an intelligent view of the wider interests of the world. It is not uninteresting to note in this connection that the two large and expensive volumes of Busch's "Memoir of Bismarck," just published by The Macmillan Company, were so promptly taken up that upwards of two thousand copies were sold before the day of issue.

BANGS & Co. announce that the regular Fall Parcel Sale of Books will be held at their rooms, 91 Fifth Avenue, New York, on the 25th October and following days. Consignments must reach the auctioneer by October 5 at the latest, as the catalogue must be sent to the printer on that date. These sales are open to all buyers, whether members of the trade or not. The usual "Remainder Sale," which is open to the book trade only, will be held in February next.

A. P. GARDINER, 550 Pearl Street, New York City, has just issued a little book of "A Drummer's Parlor Stories," illustrated by E. J. Read. Mr. Gardiner, who is himself "a drummer," has carefully chosen stories that may be told in the presence of ladies, but that are just as fu'l of fun and show the cheerful side of life on the road as well as those of racier character. No doubt many a drummer will purloin from his little book and get off those little episodes as his own experiences.

DOUBLEDAY & McClure Co. have just issued Hamlin Garland's striking biography of Ulysses S. Grant, in which he gives the personal character of the great general as few others have done; Joseph Hocking's "Mistress Mary Molesworth," a stirring tale of England in the days of the Pretender; and in their popular Domestic Library, "Model Homes at Low Cost," by W. M. Price, and "The Inside of Our Homes," by W. M. Johnson; while to their Little Masterpieces they have added "Macaulay," "Ruskin," and "Carlyle."

THE MACMILLAN Co. will publish at once "The Life of Marie Antoinette," by Clara Tschudi, translated from the Norwegian by E. M. Cope, which will contain a very complete biography; "A Source Book of American History," by Prof. Albert Bushnell Hart, of Harvard, in which are presented selected reprints of the original documents which serve as the source of American history, and which, as a whole, may be compared to the large work "American History Told by Contemporaries," excepting that it is simpler, and intended for use in high-school classes.

HENRY HOLT & Co. have just issued "A Concise Dictionary of Greek and Roman Antiquities," edited by F. Warre Cornish, vice-provost of Eton College, based on Sir William Smith's larger dictionary and incorporating the results of modern research. It contains upwards of 1100 illustrations taken from the best examples of ancient art. This dictionary is intended to be a companion to "The Classical Dictionary" recently revised and edited by G. E. Marindin, and, although intended principally for boys in the higher classes of public schools, it will be useful for all students and schoolmasters.

THE NEW CHURCH BOARD OF PUBLICATION, 3 West Twenty-ninth Street, New York, announce that it will republish, at an early day, the following two of Emanuel Swedenborg's works: "De Anima—the soul, or, rational psychology," translated and edited by Rev. Frank Sewall (in one volume), and "The Economy of the Animal Kingdom considered anatomically, physically and philosophically," translated from the Latin, by Rev. A. Clissold (in two volumes). The Board has recently published Swedenborg's "Extracts from the Apocalypse Explained," in English; "The Spiritual Life," and "God's Providence, and Creation."

THE ALLIANCE PUBLISHING Co. will publish, October 1, a new edition of "Health of Mind and Body," by T. W. Topham, M.D. This work presents an entirely new method of physical and mental culture. From its very nature it is of interest to everybody and suggestive and educational as well. "Some Philosophy of the Hermetics," and "Some More Philosophy of the Hermetics," (Anonymous,) are now ready for distribution, two of the most remarkable works on philosophy ever issued. This company are now eastern agents for the publications of the Open Court Publishing Co., of Chicago. The trade will find a complete line of their works in stock at all times.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS announce as nearly ready "The Romance of the House of Savoy, 1005-1519," an historical study, full of picturesque incidents and brilliant color, by Alethea Wiel, whose previous work in the field of Italian history has been so favorably received. They will also publish at the same time, October 5, the beautiful Faïence edition of Irving's "Captain Bonneville, U. S. A.," in two richly illustrated volumes, similar in general style to their previous holiday editions of Irving; "The Lost Province," a sequel to "The American Emperor," in which Louis Tracy tells "how Vansittart came back to France;" and "One of the Pilgrims," a bank story by Anna Fuller.

THE OXFORD UNIVERSITY PRESS (Henry Frowde) has in press a volume entitled "The More Excellent Way," compiled by the Hon. Mrs. Lyttelton Gell, of whose charming collection, "Cloud of Witness," nearly 80,000 have already been sold. In her forthcoming book the varied aspects of love—the central fact of life which, as the title recalls, St. Paul placed in the forefront of the Christian virtues—are presented as they have appeared to the poets and writers of all ages. The spirituality of St. Chrysostom, the saintliness of St. Augustine, the philosophy of Plato, the tenderness of Dante, the passion of Browning, the idealism of modern authors without number, are all laid under contribution. The method pursued may be sufficiently indicated by the titles of the seven sections under which the gems of ancient and modern literature

THE PRANG EDUCATIONAL COMPANY, Boston, have in press "Egypt, the land of the temple-builders," by Walter Scott Perry, Director of the Department of Fine Arts of the Pratt Institute, Brooklyn. It is the author's intention to convey, through descriptive text and numerous illustrations, a clear, though general, idea of the art of ancient Egypt. The book will be specially adapted for students of art history who have not time for an exhaustive study of the subject. They will also publish during the fall a volume entitled "How to Enjoy Pictures," by Mabel S. Emery and Stella Skinner. The book is written in an attractive, popular style, showing, by means of suggestive comments, questions and observations on a number of examples from old and modern masters, how to get the greatest amount of pleasure and profit from photographs and other inexpensive prints. It includes special chapters on current magazine illustration and on the common processes of picture reproduction, explaining briefly but clearly the modus operandi of photography, engraving, etching, lithography, the making of "half-tones," etc.

On the 8th of October Houghton, Mifflin & Company promise a new edition of Mr. Bellamy's "Looking Backward," enriched with a biographical sketch of Mr. Bellamy and by a fine portrait. With this will appear a volume entitled "The Blindman's World, and Other Stories," fifteen tales by Mr. Bellamy, never before included in a volume. Mr. Maurice Thompson has gathered several magazine articles into a volume which he calls "Stories of the Cherokee Hills," describing primitive life in northern Georgia, and made attractive by eight illustrations by Kemble. Professor James, of Harvard, prints a little volume containing the second Ingersoll lecture given at the University, on "Human Immortality," in which he considers two somewhat common objections to the doctrine of immortality. The publishers also announce for immediate issue, as No. 127 of their Riverside Literature Series, "Ode on a Grecian Urn and Other Poems by John Keats." This book, which will be a most worthy addition to the 140 numbers of the Riverside Literature Series already published, contains in addition to the title poem about a dozen of Keats' poems suitable for school purposes, besides several of the sonnets. Among them may be mentioned "On First Looking Into Chapman's Homer," "Isabella," "Ode to a Nightingale," "Bards of Passion," "Lines on a Mermaid's Tavern," and "Hyperion." The book has been edited with especial relation to the classroom, with notes; many of the longer poems contain introductions; and there has been written especially for this edition an excellent biographical sketch.

FOREIGN NOTES.

GRANT RICHARDS, London, will publish at once Major Esterhazy's confession of his connection with the Dreyfus case.

most, of the poems included in the volume have appeared in the "Occasional Notes" of the Pall Mall Gazette of the last two years.

THE series of literary parables published in the London Academy during the spring will shortly be published in book form by the Uni-corn Press of London. The author, "T. W. H. C.," or T. W. H. Crosland, has added a number of new parables, which will be published first in the book.

THE second edition of "Evelyn Innes," which T. Fisher Unwin has just brought out in London, contains many alterations and two pages additional matter. Mr. Moore has not consulted the feelings of those who object to his realistic method, but has modified his presentation of Ulick Dean, the Celtic musician, who has been easily recognized as Mr. W. B. Yeats. The action in at least one place has been rendered less abrupt. It is reported that ten thousand copies of the first edition have been MACMILLAN & Co. are making in England an experiment of interest and importance to the trade. Taking advantage of the recently introduced instalment system of selling books, they propose to circulate a new issue of the illustrated edition of "Green's Short History of the English People," but instead of taking orders and distributing the book through the medium of a newspaper, as has been done in the case of the "Encyclopædia Britannica," the intention is to sell the work through retail booksellers throughout the country, whom Macmillan & Co. will appoint their agents for the purpose.

THE loss of one little wooden building in London the other day is fit to cause greater sorrow to book-lovers than that of a hundred others. It was the bookbindery of the wellknown Riviere, who has long done business at that place, as did his father and grandfather before him. In the fire were lost many valuable editions, including first copies of Elizabethan dramas and poems; works of Dickens and Thackeray, first editions, with the original illustrations; first editions of Goldsmith; more than these, the original "Paradise Lost," for which Milton received his famous stipend of £5, and first folio editions of all Ben Jonson's The significance of such losses is not works. comprehensible to many, but these were notable treasures just the same, and not easily to be replaced.

TIME was when a "lithograph" was a term of contumely. Now an antiquity of just a hundred years attaches to Senefelder's invention, and lithography takes an honorable place among the graphic arts. Its rehabilitation is proved by the second exhibition of lithographs in England, announced within a short period. On the other hand Joseph Pennell, who has himself achieved distinction as a lithographer, is in collaboration with Mrs. Pennell preparing a large volume entitled "Lithography and Lithographers," which T. Fisher Unwin, of London, will publish in the fall. It will contain a history of the art of printing from a flat surface (which is what lithography really is), Duckworth & Co., London, announce a volume entitled "Some Verses," by Helen Hay, the daughter of Col. John Hay. Many, if not Whistler, which will serve as a frontispiece. and a great number of illustrations, including a lithographic portrait of Mr. Pennell, by Mr.

BUSINESS NOTES.

ATLANTA, GA.—The Columbian Book Co., of 81 Whitehall Street, which acts as the Southeastern Book Depository of the M. E. Church South, desires the trade to note that the Columbia Book Co., of Columbus, Ga., that recently failed, is in no way connected with their firm, though bearing the same name.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA.—The statement that A. C. Brechin, bookseller, etc., had been succeeded by A. C. Brechin & Son is erroneous. Mr. Brechin's son is the buyer and bookkeeper of the business, but has not yet been admitted to a partnership.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Hayes, Cooke & Co., Inc., formerly of 5 and 6 Washington Street, have removed to 144 Wabash Avenue, where they have obtained the much larger quarters their increased business demands. They will here carry on a retail business in connection with their importing and library agency. A church book and theological department will be added, and a special feature will be made of fine books, first editions, bindings, etc. Mr. M. H. Fish, for many years with the Chicago branch of Fleming H. Revell Co., will take an active financial interest in the affairs of the new firm.

COLUMBUS, GA.—The Columbia Book Company have given a chattel mortgage for $1100.

DuBois, PA.—The business of W. J. Reed, bookseller, has been sold at sheriff's sale. Judgment and execution for $4516 have also been issued against him.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.—F. M. Hulswit, book-seller, has sold out to H. H. Ellis.

KENDRICK, IDAHO.—E. E. Alderman, publisher, has been succeeded by Alderman & Pemberton.

LANCASTER, PA.—S. H. Zahm & Co., book-sellers, have been succeeded by Samuel Auxer.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.—A. L. Rathie, bookseller, etc., has removed to Madison, Minnesota.

NEW YORK CITY.—Charles P. Everett has opened a store at 18 East 23d Street, where he will devote himself to the sale of old and new books. For the past six years Mr. Everett has been connected with the firm of S. F. McLean & Co., and has learned his business thoroughly.

NEW YORK CITY.—Frederick A. Fernald is about to add to his University Bookstores at Columbia and New York Universities a third branch at Teachers College, in place of the Book Room formerly conducted by the college.

NEW YORK CITY.—Judgment for $119 has been obtained against the A. D. F. Randolph

PICK-UPS.

A MAN OF IMAGINATION.—There are imaginative men beyond the ken of Mr. R. S. Hichens. Perhaps the most noted example is the business manager of one of our large London weeklies. This man, who is more noted for business acumen than for scholarship, and whom we will not rame, is in the habit of personally calling upon some of the larger advertisers. The other day he sent in his card to the head of one of the big publishing houses, and followed it up with a demand for a column advertisement. The publisher, who is a bit of a wag, knew Mr. Blank by reputation. Their conversation was somewhat as follows: "What's in the next number?" asked the publisher. Mr. Blank rattled off a list of well-known names-a list long enough and costly enough to ruin the richest exchequer in town. "Anything by John Bunyan?" asked the publisher. "He's our dramatic critic; comes in every week," replied Mr. Blank, unabashed. "Anything by Homer?" asked the bookseller. "He does our pigeon articles." Mr. Blank got his column.-London Outlook.

FOUR-FOOTED AMERICANS AND THEIR KIN.

By MABEL OSGOOD WRIGHT, author of "Birdcraft," etc.

Edited by Frank M. Chapman. Seventy-two original illustrations by Ernest Seton Thompson. Cloth, 12mo, $1.50, net.

An interesting odd story underlies the relation in some thirty chapters of the life histories of seventy-five or more American mammals, not only the four-footed, but the winghanded-bat kin, and the footless whale of American waters. There is no other one book that adequately pictures the life of our most notable mammals, though sporting and hunting books abound. Nowhere outside of this volume can be found such a group of life-like illustrations.

The artist's name guarantees the perfection of animal pictures.

It is Uniform with and a Companion Volume to Citizen Bird.

By MABEL OSGOOD WRIGHT and Dr. ELLIOTT COUES.

Over 100 illustrations by Louis Agassiz Fuertes. Cloth, crown 8vo, $1.50, net.

A well-known critic writes: "We are certain that no better book than this has ever been written upon ornithology for the young reader."—Book Reviews.

American Prose.

SELECTIONS, WITH CRITICAL INTRODUCTIONS BY VARIOUS WRITERS, AND A GENERAL INTRODUCTION. Edited by Prof. George R. Carpenter, Columbia University, author of "Principles of Grammar." Cloth, 12mo, $1.00, net.

This volume is intended as a supplement to the five volumes of Craig's "English Prose," and follows in general the plan adopted in that series and in Ward's "English Poets." The object is to present extracts of considerable length from the works of the chief American prose writers, each preceded by a short biographical sketch.

Among the contributors are the following, each writing of the author named:

John Fiske on Francis Parkman.

Hamlin Garland on Ulysses S. Grant.

Edward Everett Hale, Jr., on Wm. H. Prescott.

Thomas Wentworth Higginson on H. D. Thoreau.

William Dean Howells on Geo. William Curtis.

Brander Matthews on Washington Irving.

Etc., etc., etc.

Charles Eliot Norton on James Russell Lowell.
Harry Thurston Peck on Abraham Lincoln.
Charles F. Richardson on Henry W. Longfellow.
George Santayana on Ralph W. Emerson.
Munroe Smith on Thomas Paine.
William P. Trent on Benjamin Franklin.

The best and most authoritative criticism obtainable on our prose literature.

A Short History of English Literature.

By GEORGE SAINTSBURY,
Professor of English Literature in the University of Edinburgh, author of "A History of Elizabethan Literature," "History of Nineteenth Century Literature," etc.

Cloth, 12mo, $1.50.

The Loves of the Lady Arabella.

By MOLLY ELLIOT SEAWELL,

Author of the "Sprightly Romance of Marsac,"

"The History of the Lady Betty Stair," etc.

Illustrated by George Gibbs.

Cloth, crown 8vo, $1.50.

The rapid, absorbing movement makes this a stirring romance. The period is that of the late eighteenth century—a time near enough to be in touch with the modern world, but full of a splendid picturesqueness.

The Shape of Fear and Other Ghostly Stories.

By Mrs. ELIA F. PEATTIE,
Author of "A Mountain Woman,"
"With Scrip and Staff,"
"Pippins and Cheese," etc.

Cloth, 16mo, 75 cents.

A distinctly new thing is this book, and of a rather remarkable kind.
"Spook" stories of every-day people—photographers, Western settlers, and newspaper men. A curiously and skilfully weird treatment of material.

WILL PUBLISH SATURDAY, OCTOBER 1:

CAMBRIDGE TENNYSON.

Poetical Works of Alfred Lord Tennyson. Uniform with the Cambridge Longfellow, Whittier, Lowell, Holmes, Browning, and Burns. With a biographical sketch and notes by WILLIAM J. ROLFE, indexes to titles and first lines, a portrait, and an engraved title-page with a vignette. Large crown 8vo, $2.00.

The distinctive features of this edition are (1) accuracy of text, (2) ample equipment of notes, (3) numbering of the lines, (4) thin opaque paper, making a convenient volume, and (5) type of good size. It is a remarkably satisfactory single-volume edition of Tennyson.

A HISTORY OF THE PRESIDENCY.

By EDWARD STANWOOD, Litt.D. Crown 8vo, $2.50.

This work is based on Mr. Stanwood's "History of Presidential Elections," which has been regarded as a standard authority. Mr. Stanwood has rewritten the portion relating to elections prior to 1856, greatly modified later chapters, and brought the narrative down to and including the election of 1866. He devotes new chapters to the electoral system and the development of the National Convention; and his is the only book which narrates the inception of all national parties and records their authoritative platforms. The work is virtually indispensable to colleges, libraries, and all students of American political history.

THE BOYS OF OLD MONMOUTH.

A Story of Washington's Campaign in New Jersey in 1778. By EVERETT T. TOMLINSON, author of "Guarding the Border," "Washington's Young Aids," etc. With illustrations. Crown 8vo, $1.50.

This is another of Mr. Tomlinson's stirring stories of Revolutionary days. Two boys have part in important scenes, one acting the hero in the battle of Monmouth; and Washington and other famous persons figure in the interesting story.

IN THE BRAVE DAYS OF OLD.

A Story of Adventure in the Time of King James the First. By RUTH HALL. With a frontispiece illustration. 12mo, $1.50.

A book of stirring adventures for boys. Giles Valentine, an English boy, and Jan Verrooy, a Dutch boy, together have a hand in many historical events in England, Holland, France, and America, such as warning of the Gunpowder Plot, sailing with Henry Hudson in the Half Moon, etc. The story has good historic background, and is told with great spirit.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 8:

LOOKING BACKWARD.

By Edward Bellamy. New Edition, with a portrait of Mr. Bellamy, and a biographical sketch by Sylvester Baxter. 12mo, $1.00; paper, 50 cents.

The recent death of Mr. Bellamy calls attention anew to this remarkable story, which has had a wider reading than almost any other American book of this generation, and which one critic felicitously pronounced "a marvellous story combined with social philosophy and a forecast of the millennium."

THE BLINDMAN'S WORLD

And Other Stories. By EDWARD BELLAMY. With an introductory chapter by Mr. Howells. 12mo, $1.50.

The fifteen stories in this book are thoroughly interesting, and have in large measure the humane imagination and the eager purpose of improving social conditions which distinguish all of Mr. Bellamy's writings.

STORIES OF THE CHEROKEE HILLS.

By MAURICE THOMPSON, author of "A Tallahassee Girl," etc. With 8 full-page illustrations by E. W. Kemble. 12mo, $1.50.

These stories belong to the same general place and time with Mr. Joel Chandler Harris's "Home Tales." They illustrate the simple primitive life of Northern Georgia, where Mr. Thompson spent his boyhood, and the stories, with Mr. Kemble's illustrations, make a very attractive book.

HUMAN IMMORTALITY.

Two Supposed Objections to the Doctrine. By WILLIAM JAMES, Professor of Philosophy at Harvard University. 16mo, $1.00.

Dr. James here considers two points supposed by some persons to militate against the doctrine of human immortality—physical death, and the innumerable host of human beings. His treatment of the subject is original and of profound interest, and at times is not only convincing but nobly eloquent.

DOUBLEDAY & McCLURE COMPANY PUBLISH TO-DAY.

THE BOOK OF THE YEAR.

Rudyard Kipling's New Book, "THE DAY'S WORK."

First Edition Exhausted Before Publication. Second " " " "

Third Edition Just Ready.

UNQUESTIONABLY the most noteworthy event of 1898 in the world of books is this new volume containing twelve stories by Mr. Kipling. Not only is it the product of his most mature genius thus far, but its range is extraordinary—from the delicate dream quality of "The Brushwood Boy," for instance, to those stirring tales in which he voices the monstrous throbbing of the marine engine and the American locomotive. The volume has been making for three or four years and is the best work of an author who stands easily at the head of contemporary writers.

Specifications:—Size, 5½ x 8½; Binding, green cloth; Pages, 431; Type, 10 point; Illustrations, 8 full-page, by W. L. Taylor, W. D. Stevens, Sonntag, Blumenschein and others; Price, $1.50.

A GREAT BIOGRAPHY OF A GREAT AMERICAN.

ULYSSES S. GRANT.

HIS LIFE AND CHARACTER.

By HAMLIN GARLAND.

The first personal life of the great Soldier-President, embodying a mass of hitherto unpublished material and showing as no previous accounts have ever done the real man and his development. Mr. Garland travelled 35,000 miles in collecting his material. Barely a tenth of the material appeared serially in McClure's Magazine.

Specifications:—Size, 63/2 x 91/2; Pages, 550; Binding, strong linen; Type, 11 point; Illustrations, 32, coated paper, inserted; Price, $2.50.

A DASHING TALE OF ADVENTURE by the Author of "THE BIRTHRIGHT."

MISTRESS NANCY MOLESWORTH. By JOSEPH HOCKING.

A story of the South of England in the days of the Pretender which is full of stirring action and incident. It is one of a series devoted to Tales of Incident and Adventure.

Specifications:—Size, 5 x 71/2; Binding, green cloth, pictorial design; Pages, 400; Type, 10 point; Price, $1.00.

THE SUNDAY-SCHOOL TIMES, Sept. 17, 1898, says of Nelson's New Series of Teachers' Bibles.

THE NELSON TEACHERS' BIBLE IS OF HIGH GRADE. The Illustrated Bible Treasury is a collection of helps more full than most others, and showing great care in preparation. For example, anyone who will compare its treatment of the geography, the typography, the astronomy, zoology, mineralogy, botany or the antiquities of the Bible, with similar matter to be found anywhere else, will find the COMPARISON GREATLY TO THE CREDIT OF THIS BIBLE. There are about three hundred and fifty illustrations. The Concordance, Subject-index, and Pronouncing Dictionary of Proper Names are combined under one alphabet. . . . Another special excellence is that its Concordance covers the Revised Version as well as the Old Version."

THE DESTROYER.

By BENJAMIN SWIFT.

The author of "Nancy Noon," "The Tormentor,"

Mr. Swift is one of the most brilliant writers of the time. The Literary World describes his style as sparkling. The Destroyer, according to Mr. Swift, is Love.

"Mr. Richard Garnet and Mr. Zangwill are both of the opinion that the book will place Mr. Swift where he belongs, among the foremost of our new writers. . . The book is said to be as fine a piece of literature as has been written during recent years."—From "Chronicle and Comment," in The Bookman.

12mo, cloth, $1.25.

THE TOWN TRAVELLER.

Author of "The Whirlpool," etc.

Mr. Gissing is now recognized as one of the ablest of English writers of fiction. The sombreness of his views of life, however, has prevented his works from attaining that wide popularity they deserved. In "The Town Traveller," Mr. Gissing writes in the same skilful, conscientious style as in his early books, but the story is brighter and is told with considerable humor.

12mo, cloth, $1.25.

Grace O'Malley: Princess and Pirate.

Told by RUARI MACDONALD, Redshank and Rebel.

The same set forth in the tongue of the English by ROBERT MACHRAY.

A stirring picture of the subjugation of Ireland by Queen Elizabeth. Grace O'Malley was the leader of an Irish Clan who lived by piracy and who maintained their independence until the last, with the expectation that Spain would help them throw off the English yoke.

"Narrated with admirable verve and unflag-ging vivacity."—Glasgow Herald.
